

BENTLEY ANSWER DOES NOT RENEW SCHULTZ CHARGES

Discusses Schultz's Sworn Denial that He Sought to be Chief of Police

ATTACKS SCHULTZ FOR CONNECTION WITH GUARD

Says Issue is Whether He Asked Schultz's Aid or Latter's His

MAYOR BENTLEY on Monday gave the Tribune and Leader-Press a second letter to Frank H. Fowler, his opponent in the mayoralty election, in which he discussed the affidavit of R. F. H. Schultz denying Bentley's charge that Schultz had offered to pull out of the Fowler campaign if he (Schultz) could be made chief of police.

The letter does not renew the charge that Schultz sought to be appointed chief. It says the main issue is "did Mr. Schultz seek my assistance or did I ask for his?"

The mayor says he can furnish names of citizens who will disprove the Schultz affidavit, which he calls "a highly polished political affidavit, cunningly and learnedly prepared," and attacks Schultz for his administration of the employment office and his connection with the militia.

Mayor Bentley's letter in full follows:

March 28th, 1921.

Col. Frank H. Fowler,

La Crosse, Wis.

My Dear Colonel:

Apparently you have chosen to fight your campaign through the press, as evidenced by the publication of your second letter in the La Crosse Tribune of March 27th, together with the communication from your co-worker and accredited campaign manager, Capt. Schultz.

You and Mr. Schultz have both made use of the word "liar," which is a word which is often used as a "scream" that comes from an otherwise blank argument. In the middle west where I have traveled considerably, a man never calls another a "liar" unless he is prepared to "draw first" at their next meeting.

Let us in this country "draw first." We let those interested decide who is the liar after presenting all the evidence. I have learned in campaigns to be exactly truthful in public service work. Even though homely and awkward, at times, Colonel, I advise you and your assistants to stick to the naked truth.

You say you have not discussed with any one any appointments and that may be true, but several citizens do know that Mr. Schultz has been trying to look after his own berth. He has sought the endorsement of many for himself as a candidate for mayor since you were in the field, notwithstanding the fact that he was chairman of the meeting at Yeomen hall, referred to as your "bringing out" meeting, held one week after you had told me in Madison that you were going to be a candidate. He did seek for the appointment as Police Justice. He did come to the city hall and say that he had now agreed to accept an appointment on the Fire and Police commission.

You say you did not assist in the plans to remove Chief Webber and secure the appointment of Schultz. Such plans were made as is well known by many citizens, and whether you directed them or encouraged them, I am not at this time prepared to say, but this I will say, the bitterness disclosed in your first letter of March 24th, strongly indicates that you would be extremely glad if some such plan could have been put across. I refer to your language as follows:

"Let it be understood that my denial of this falsehood is no endorsement of the La Crosse police force. Perhaps the union men to whom you addressed these remarks may have remembered the arrest of Arthur Grosskopf, a union secretary, for peaceful picketing, and they may recall that a son of 'good old John Webber' was a strike breaker on that occasion."

You rather ruthlessly dragged the innocent family of the chief into your political mire, and made a statement about an arrest which is quite contrary to facts as shown by the police records. Now we must let the public decide what, if any, part you had in the construction of the plans to secure the official usefulness of Mr. Webber. When a man publicly screams "liar," the people usually distrust the screamer first.

You say the Schultz affidavit has raised the question of veracity between Mr. Schultz and myself. Now this statement is hardly fair for if you wish I can furnish you with names of citizens, whose veracity you will not question, who will prove to you that the affidavit signed by Mr. Schultz is entirely wrong. Another thing you should remember is that this Schultz affidavit is a carefully prepared political document, worded and punctuated by people claiming to be expert political manipulators, and only signed by Mr. Schultz as the only possible opening for a way out of the hole he got into by trying to double cross you. With due reverence for the suggestion, let me say, Colonel, that I believe that some day when Mr. Schultz is very ill, he may

WAGE INCREASE IS DENIED WORKERS ON U. S. "SHORT LINES"

Rail Labor Board Dismisses Appeal of Unions Filed Last Fall

4,000 EMPLOYEES OF 67 ROADS AFFECTED BY THE RULING

Wage Increases Now in Effect Not Affected Says Decision

CHICAGO, Ill.—The United States railroad labor board Monday dismissed appeals for increased wages filed with it last fall by fifteen railroad labor unions against sixty-seven "short lines" throughout the country.

Short lines which accepted for their men the terms of the $800,000,000 wage award of last July will not be required to go back to the old scale, under the decision, however, the announcement of the board saying:

"This decision shall not be considered as affecting any wage increase now in effect nor any agreement regarding wages between any of the carriers and their employees."

Approximately 4,000 employees on 67 railroads are affected by the board's decision. All the roads are short lines, in some cases operating for only a few miles.

Fifteen Unions Affected
Representatives of fifteen employees' organizations are among the 4,000 men affected. In a few cases employees belonging to all fifteen unions are involved on the same road but on the larger part of the roads only a few classes of employees come under the decision for reason that the board's decision affects only those in whose behalf a dispute was brought to the board.

Disputes were originally certified to the board on the part of employees belonging to one or more of the fifteen unions on 103 railroads. Ten of these roads however were electric lines and the board ruled these lines out. Twenty six other lines adopted the wage schedules paid by the trunk lines, laid down in what is known as decision number two, the wage award by the United States railroad labor board of July 20, 1920.

The trunk lines in decision number two were those represented by the Association of Railway Executives.

Hearing Held in October

Following the application of decision two, employees on railroads not affected began to file disputes with the board and the whole matter was taken up in a hearing on October 18, 1920. The hearing consumed fourteen days over a period of more than a month. The short lines are not parties to the present rules and working conditions hearing and in event they do not accept the board's decision on wages, a separate hearing on rules for short lines will also be necessary.

Various scales of the sixty-seven roads, in effect on the sixty-seven roads, some carriers paid the standard scale established by the United States Railroad administration. Others paid the same rates as those approximately the same rates as those paid on the trunk lines in the same territory.

The railroads involved include: Deluth and Northern Minnesota; Deluth and Copper Range Railroad; Escanaba and Lake Superior; Green Bay and Western; Manitowish and Northwestern railroads.

INCOME TAX RULINGS ANNOUNCED TODAY BY U. S. SUPREME COURT

Increase in Value of Bonds and in Capital Investment Taxable Holds Court

HIGH COURT TO REVIEW NEW YORK DECISIONS

Trust Fund Profits Also Taxable Justices Rule

WASHINGTON.—The government won a string of victories Monday in income tax decisions handed down by the supreme court. Solicitor General Frier-son declared the government's position had been upheld completely. The effect of the rulings, he added, was that any gain derived from corporate bond or capital asset investments was taxable as income, the amount of income subject to such taxation still to be estimated from March 1, 1913.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Increase in the value of corporate bonds originally acquired and held for investment, is taxable under the revenue act of 1913, the supreme court ruled Monday.

The supreme court reversed the decision of federal courts of Connecticut which held against the government on the question of whether an increase in the value of securities purchased and held as an investment but ruled that the tax could only be imposed on the actual gain.

Thousands of cases of income assessments—some within this decision of the court, upon which depended the necessity of the government refunding millions of dollars in taxes.

Increase in value of a capital investment is taxable as income under the revenue act of 1913, the supreme court held.

The court's decision was given in the appeal of David M. Goodrich from a ruling of the internal revenue bureau assessing him upon the increased value of stocks purchased prior to 1913. Action of the revenue officials was affirmed by the supreme court in the transaction showing a gain.

The court ruled that the transaction showing an actual loss could not be taxed since there was no "gain" derived.

The supreme court has agreed to review decisions of New York courts holding that dividends applied by credit in partial payment of stipulated premiums did not constitute income, and also that "decline in market value of securities owned by the taxpayer constituted depreciation of property."

The decision of the lower court was rendered in favor of the New York Life Insurance company in suits filed by that company against Charles W. Anderson, collector of internal revenue for the second New York district.

Profits realized from assets of a trust fund are taxable under income excess profits law, the supreme court held Monday. The decision of the court directly affects several cases now in litigation and indirectly affects thousands of trust funds. It was given in the appeal brought by the Merchants' Loan and Trust company as trustees of the estate of Arthur Hays Sulzberger, a citizen of Illinois.

Eytson left as part of his estate capital stock in the firm of Eytson & Son, valued at $500,000. Four years after his death his stock was sold for $1,250,000 and the cash obtained was added to the estate. The government imposed a tax of $511,000 on the increased value.

Coupled with the Eytson case was that brought by the Eldorado Coal & Mining company, an Indiana corporation which abandoned business in 1917, disposed of its assets and accounts for $275,000 and distributed all its funds among the stockholders. It was assessed an additional tax of $2,000 on the ground that money obtained through the sale represented an increase of $3,500 over the value of the assets in 1917.

The court based its decision on those rendered in former cases hearing on the meaning of the term "income."

The supreme court sustained California courts in a decision growing out of the condemnation by the government of lands on North Island in San Diego bay, for a naval aviation site.

The Colorado Land company, owners of the land taken, won a verdict of $5,000,000 with interest from the date of award. The government took an appeal on the ground that the jury had included certain tide-water property in that to be paid for when title to such land was clearly in the state or the federal government.

The supreme court extended to July 1, 1921, the time allowed under a previous order for the commission in the Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary.

WASHINGTON KIDS MAKE MERRY ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN

WASHINGTON.—The youngsters of Washington took possession of the white house lawn Monday for the first Easter egg rolling since 1917. All the kids of the city were free to come and go at will in President Harding's backyard for the whole day and they poured down every street and by every car line, each armed with a basket of colored eggs, to deluge the great sweep of lawn in a flood-tide of laughing shouting and crowing childhood. Kids of every age and color seized the opportunity. Long before the big barges swung back to admit them and the president's own band, the Marine band, tuned up to help things along, there were noise and excitement around each entrance. The weather men had predicted a sudden drop in the summer-like temperature but he was good natured about it and held off, giving the youngsters fine bright weather.

FUNERAL MASS FOR SOPHIE SKAFF HELD IN THE CATHEDRAL

Greek Catholic Ceremony Held in St. Joseph's First Time in Church's History

The funeral of Sophie Skaff, who died last Thursday as a result of injuries received when she was struck by an automobile Wednesday night at Sixth and Main streets, was held Monday morning in the Cathedral of St. Joseph. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery.

Solemn mass was celebrated by the Rev. Philip Salmons of the Syrian Catholic church of the north side. It was the first time in the history of the cathedral that a Greek Catholic funeral mass was celebrated in that edifice.

Father Salmons delivered two funeral sermons, the first in Syrian and followed it with a few remarks in English. The cathedral was crowded to the doors with relatives and intimate friends of the Skaff family, practically the entire Syrian colony in La Crosse, and many others who crossed to hear the funeral mass conducted by the Greek Catholic priest.

Father Salmons, speaking excellent English and selecting the finest of words, paid tribute to the life and high ideals of Miss Skaff. He held her life up as a glowing example of purity, devotion to her religious beliefs and her desire to win a high education in dramatic, artistic and literary culture. Father Salmons also said Miss Skaff's life showed how the young generation of Syrians have sought knowledge and tried to bring honor to their homes and the land adopted by their parents.

LONDON NEWSPAPER APPROVES U. S. STAND ON RUSS RELATIONS

LONDON.—Agreement with the principles enunciated by Charles E. Hughes, American secretary of state, in his reply to overtures for a trade agreement by the Russian bolshevik government, is expressed by the Daily Mail. The newspaper says the British government's attitude in concluding an agreement for the opening of trade relations with soviet Russia contrasts strikingly with America's decision, "President Harding," declares the newspaper, "disturbs bolshevik diplomacy, and lost no time in rejecting Lenin's overtures. It is certain Great Britain will find herself at variance with the bolsheviks sooner or later."

MADISON, Wis.—Ray Funk, former county treasurer of Waukesha county, who was sentenced to Waukesha for embezzlement March 28, 1919 for a term of seven years, has been granted a parole. His seven year sentence was commuted by Governor Phillips on December 14, 1920 to four years. This made Funk eligible for parole this month.

Funk is forty years old and is married. He has been an exemplary prisoner at Waukesha. He was convicted of embezzling $16,493.17. It is understood that he will return to Waukesha and will be employed there.

PROBE CHARGE OF PEONAGE ON FARM OF GEORGIA MAN

Two Bodies Found in River Near the Williams Plantation

NEGRO WORKER CONFESSES TO KILLING OF ELEVEN

Williams and Negro to be Arraigned Before Grand Jury

MONTICELLO, Ga.—State authorities planned Monday to push their investigation of alleged peonage practices in Jasper and Newton counties following the recovery of two more bodies of negroes from the Alcovy river near here, making eleven bodies found since the authorities began an investigation of peonage and murder charges against John Williams, a farmer.

Appointment of Attorney General Denney to take charge of the investigations was being considered Monday by Governor Dancy. Following a coroner's verdict Sunday declaring the slain negroes met death at the hands of Clyde Manning, a negro employed by Williams, and naming Williams as an accessory, Judge Park was awaiting orders from the governor today to call a special term of the superior court and bring the two men before a grand jury.

Manning, who led the authorities where the bodies were recovered, confessed the eleven negroes, five of whose bodies were found buried on the Williams plantation Saturday, and three previously in the Alcovy river, were slain at his own hand with an ax, to prevent them from testifying in peonage charges against Williams.

FIRE DAMAGES ROOF OF RAU RESIDENCE AT NOON MONDAY

Originating from sparks from the chimney, a fire which caused considerable damage to the roof occurred at the John Rau residence, 1099 State street, shortly after noon Monday.

The flames were quickly extinguished after the arrival of the fire equipment, and while the roof was damaged to some extent it was said that the interior of the residence was not damaged.

Another roof fire occurred at the Hart residence, 501 Berlin street at noon Monday. Little damage was reported.

AN APOLOGY TO MR. BEN OTT

In the Sunday Tribune and Leader-Press, under the heading, "Public Debate," appeared an unsigned attack on Mr. Ben Ott. It was in the form of a communication to the newspaper.

The article purported to be a discussion of the road problem raised by Mr. Ott in a previous communication, but underneath this pretext it contained a scurrilous and unprovoked attack on Mr. Ott, full of mean and narrow innuendo, and was unprovoked and without excuse or justification.

The Tribune deeply regrets the publication of this article which escaped the attention of the editor and went out with other communications, of which a number appear daily in this newspaper. Mr. Ott is one of La Crosse's most esteemed citizens, whose reputation is too well entrenched to be injured by absurd misrepresentation and anonymous defamation as this, but we are nevertheless sorry and humiliated that through an oversight in this office he should have been subjected to the annoyance of an assault brought on by notoriety more than his intelligent championing of a common-sense policy affecting highway administration in Wisconsin.

Probably no business concern in the country has a better record of meeting the emergencies and looking out for the comfort of its employees than the Segelke-Kohlhaas company. Notwithstanding that its activities were restricted by the government during the war, it kept its men at work. During the present dull times, when thousands of plants are idle and their men jobless, this company is keeping its employees at work and running full time. That at times it could have closed down with financial advantage to itself is certain, but it found ways to keep going. Over two-thirds of the men employed in the Segelke-Kohlhaas plant own their own homes, and the plan adopted by the company to make home ownership easy for its employees was so important as to gain wide publicity in the newspapers. In view of the facts the assault upon the company appeared especially venomous, particularly at a time when hundreds of jobless workers in La Crosse would gladly belong to this factory organization.

The Tribune sincerely begs the forgiveness of Mr. Ott and his family, and of the officers and directors of the company.

Shell Rebel Positions
HALL, Germany.—By The Associated Press.—Federal artillery was taking a prominent part Monday in dealing with the insurgent communists in the disturbed section of Prussian Saxony.

The artillery shelled the communists who were grouped in hills to the west of Eisleben, dispersing them. After a brief engagement the town of Saengerhausen, southwest of Eisleben was occupied by federal forces which now control that place.

Count Ponikvar, colonel of police in the Mansfeld district, has taken charge of the operations around Eisleben.

Reids Hold Bitterfeld
BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—The rioting activities of the communist uprising in Central Germany are concentrating now in Bitterfeld, where the extremists have disarmed the local police and occupied the public buildings, according to an official communiqué issued Monday. During Sunday, says the statement, bandits looted the bank and postoffice at Saengerhausen and put the local telegraph office out of commission.

(A Halle dispatch Monday announced that Saengerhausen, southwest of Eisleben, had been occupied and put under control by federal forces.)

Hamper Rail Operation
Through trains which normally traverse the Halle section are being prevented owing to the sabotaging of the tracks and bridges by the communists, who are continuing to spread terror as they proceed westward and northward from Halle, with the security police at their heels.

The extent to which a general strike movement is likely to develop as a sequel to the present outbreak, could not be determined as the workers everywhere are taking their Easter holiday.

Troop reinforcements are constantly arriving at different points in the riot area and the government announces that it does not propose to enter into a truce and that it will demand the surrender of the arms and munitions held by the communists.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT ASKS ARBITRATION OF AERONAUTIC DISPUTE

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—The German government replying Monday to an inquiry of the inter-allied aeronautical control commission as to whether manufacturers of aeronautical material still supported by the German authorities in their continued violation of the contents of such international agreements, that the matter be referred to arbitration. In its communication the German government states that it still adheres to its standpoint that the Versailles treaty did not give the allies the right to prolong the embargo on the manufacture and importation of aeronautical material beyond July 10, 1920.

JOBS FOR MEN AND CHEAPER LIVING IS PLATFORM--FOWLER

Declares Both Can be Accomplished With Proper Effort of City Executive

AGAINST PROFESSIONALS OF GAMBLING AND MOONSHINE

Resents Effort to Link Labor Movement With Unclean Things

ASSEMBLING that work for men and cheaper living expenses are the two principal planks in his mayoralty campaign, Frank H. Fowler, in a communication sent to the Tribune and Leader-Press today, asserts that both can be accomplished with proper effort upon the part of the city's chief executive.

Mr. Fowler, incidentally, took occasion to assert that if elected mayor he will use every effort to stop every professional gambler who lives off the take-off of games he induces people to play and that he will stop moonshining and bootlegging wherever found.

The candidate says he has been warned to "play off" the moonshining and gambling features on the grounds that it will cost him votes among the laboring people and says he resents the attempts of a certain element to link the labor movement with unclean things.

Fowler's Communication
Mr. Fowler's communication follows:

"To the People of La Crosse:
I am called to Madison on the midnight train tonight to resume my duties in the legislature. I hope to return later in the week and to be among you for a few days. Before leaving I desire to leave a few suggestions with you for your consideration."

"Political discussion has been diverted from the real issues in the campaign. Two men only are running for the office of mayor. Each has set forth a platform. Both platforms have appeared in the newspapers. Talk about what other people have done and have not done may cloud the issue, and while it was started in an intention to do so, it is a side issue, my final stand as complete and final, and I shall make no further reference to it."

"My platform sets up two main issues:
(1) Work for men.
(2) Cheaper living expenses.

Can Relieve Unemployment.
I maintain that city administration can do much to relieve unemployment. The principle of doing necessary public work when men need employment is an old and sound one. There is pressing need of school buildings. A new depot is an absolute necessity. There is need of street work and other improvements. Much of this building and construction has been tied up for months in factional debates. I pledge myself to get it started at the earliest possible moment, in order to provide jobs for hundreds of men. It can be done. My second proposition is one that is backed by all the greatest economists of the time. It is to use the food grown at home, and to get it to the consumer direct from the producer wherever possible. It is backed by the United States department of agriculture, by the agricultural colleges of the state university, by the American Federation of Labor. It proposes to bring the local producer and consumer together through local markets. In La Crosse the market and milk station program is well started. It needs extension and development on a permanent basis. Some idea of the saving involved may be gathered by the fact that on a carload of hay shipped from South Dakota to Madison, Wis., the other day the price paid the farmer for the hay was $151, and the freight on the car was $165. Put these two things together: They mean work by which men and women can earn wages with which to buy food, and good food to buy at VIROQUA, Wis.—One of the most delightful dancing parties of the season was given at the Roman hall on Friday evening, by the Misses Vivian, Lucille, Charlotte Davis, Eunice Nelson, Nola Isley, Edna Hanson, Dorothy Kyle, Helma Kuehn, Myrtle Moss and Alma Snyder. The hall was prettily decorated in a color scheme of green in observance of St. Patrick's day. The electric lights were covered with green crepe paper, throwing a soft green light over the hall. Shawbrooks and hats in green were used effectively in the decorations. Cozy corners were arranged in pretty effect.

The Misses Laruan Lindemann, Louise Minshall, Alice Ferguson, Ruth Lander, Harriet Running and Edith Hope Smith presided at the serving bowl and assisted in the serving of the guests. Out of town guests included Miss Laura Mabel Elbertson of La Crosse, Mrs. C. J. VOTERS SHOW LITTLE INTEREST IN CONTEST OVER SCHOOL POST

MADISON, Wis.—Local elections to fill judge positions will be the center of interest in this year's April voting. With Judge A. J. Vinj opposed for re-election to the supreme bench and the campaign between John Callahan and G. P. Cary for the state superintendency of schools carried on without outward political demonstration, there is little to attract attention.

The Cary-Callahan contest for control of the state common school system is causing scarcely a ripple. No attempt is being made to attract votes through active campaigning by either of the contestants. Neither is there any indication of the possible outcome of the superintendency election.

Make This Test

Watch how your teeth respond

This ten-day test has shown to millions the way to whiter, safer teeth. It is a free test—you should make it. No other method known can do what Pepsodent does for teeth.

To end the film

The object is to fight the film, which dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles. Dental science has worked years to do that.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not combat it satisfactorily, so brushing leaves much of it intact.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus all these troubles have been constantly increasing, despite the tooth brush.

How we combat it

Dental science, after years of searching, has found ways to combat film. High authorities have proved them by clinical and laboratory tests.

The best dental opinion now approves these methods. Leading dentists everywhere are urging their adoption. Millions of people, as a result, now employ them daily.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And a 10-Day Tube is offered free, so all who will may quickly know how much it means to them.

Five much desired effects

One ingredient of Pepsodent is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest the starch deposits which cling and form acid.

It also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay. Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Pepsodent combines the best that modern science knows to combat the great tooth destroyers. It has brought a new era in teeth cleaning.

Watch it act

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

You will see several new effects, and the book we send will tell you what they mean. This is too important to forget. Cut out the coupon now.

"And some fell upon good ground"

The Sower, in the parable, cast his seed to the winds of heaven.

That which landed among the stones, the thorns and in the barren places, perished.

Only the seeds which reached the good ground had a chance to grow.

The modern national advertiser does not strew his seed of salesmanship to the winds.

He plants it carefully in the "good ground"—in the places where because of favorable conditions it has a chance to bear a harvest of consumer results.

He uses newspaper advertising because through the newspapers he covers completely the markets which he knows, upon careful investigation, to be the right places for his product to flourish.

History of Prices Repeats

A CHART prepared by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, from government statistics, shows, by years since 1825, the ebb and flow of prices of the seventy-four commodities of common use, expressed in actual money values.

For instance, the chart shows that what cost $1.25 in 1825 could be bought for seventy cents in 1895 and about $1.80 in January, 1921. The chart shows that actual prices averaged exactly the same in 1842, 1878 and 1913. Prices in 1919 were the same as in 1864. In 1896 prices averaged lower than in any previous year back to 1825, earliest record available, barring temporary price slumps due to panics, as in 1873.

Prices declined steadily from 1864, reached bottom in 1896, then rose steadily until May, 1920, and now are on the toboggan downward again.

One reason one generation can't understand the next is largely due to changing prices—the fluctuating buying power of the dollar.

Father observes son spending $75 a week and shakes his head. He mumbles something about keeping a family on $75 a month in the old days.

Father forgets that in the old days he didn't pay $50 or more a month for rent, or $60 for a fair suit of clothes, or that the average tax levy in 1921 is as big as the yearly cash income of Jonas, the hired man on the farm, in the old days.

In this generation, son may think father's complaints are those of an old-fashioned tightwad. Several generations, hence, when the tables are turned and prices are low, great-grandson will run across a 1920 expense account in an old trunk in the attic and will lament that the family would be as rich as chocolate cake if great-grandpop had saved his enormous income in 1920.

The Vanishing Mystery

SEEMS as if nearly everybody that made a big money clean-up out of the war has lost or is losing it. The way in which war fortunes are slipping away is strangely similar to the "April Fool" wallet with a string attached, jerked away by a mischievous boy just as we reach down to pick it up. A leather company's annual statement shows that its 1920 deficit wiped out profits accumulated in the last seven years. So with many other corporations. Depression is eating up their wealth. A man is pointed out on the street: "He's nearly busted. Said he made a big stake during the war. It's gone now."

Where are the war profits gone to? Who has them? Who will be the eventual holder when deflation and readjustment have run their course?

Some business men say that the government through taxes, gradually will get back the floating war profits. But the government will spend the money to retire its debts.

Barring the war fortunes that have been salted securely, most of the war profits in the long run may filter back to the public from which they came. It's a long cycle and it may take decades. "Shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves in three generations."

Money in the Bank

THE nation grows thriftier. Deposits in American savings banks increased more than nine per cent during 1920.

In total money on deposit, Ohio made the greatest increase of all middle western states. But Wisconsin takes the gold badge for thrift. It had the greatest percentage of increase during the year—twenty-six per cent.

As savers, however, Americans lag behind the rest of the world. Our savings are only two per cent of our national wealth, against three per cent in other countries. This is because our percentage of savers to total population is small.

er, for we lead the world in average size savings account, also in average deposit per inhabitant. There never was a time like the present, for saving money. The buying power of the American dollar is increasing daily. A dollar will buy twice as much wheat now as it would during the high-price peak of the war. That's pretty much the story in all commodities. It is not beyond possibility that $1 saved now will, in actual buying power, be worth $1.50 or even $2.00 a few years hence.

Electric Economy

AMERICANS used about thirteen per cent more electricity in 1920 than the year before. Electricity, says the Geological Survey, saves the nation about 41,000,000 tons of coal a year. Herbert Hoover and other engineers have long pointed out the tremendous waste in hauling coal over railroads and handling it in factories and homes. They predict a day when coal will be burned at the mines, running giant power plants that will put the country on an electrical instead of a steam-coal basis. Those in the know say it's a dream that'll come true. Electrification may be the solution of the railroad problem. Out of every 100 tons of coal mined in the United States, twenty-six tons are used in operating railroads. Hauling this coal ties up thousands of freight cars. There is similar duplication in handling the coal until it goes into locomotives.

It used to be said that there wasn't enough copper in the world to electrify American railroads. But the producers now have at least 400,000,000 pounds of copper in storage. They are offering it abroad at ten cents a pound, or less than a third of the war-time highest. Now might be an excellent time to start general electrification of the railroads. Roads that have changed to electric locomotives say they would not go back.

It's a big job and would take enormous capital. But it would also provide jobs for thousands. And money is never so scarce in the United States that it can't be gotten for any project that will save millions in the long run.

Here's a headline: "French autos run on cognac; brandy cheaper than gasoline says former university teacher." How would you like to run up to the filling station and tell them to fill your tank with cognac?

Who shall collect the taxes on the upper end of French Island and whether or not it is to be a part of the city or town of Onalaska is a problem that has been put up to a committee of the board of development. A Man For the Ages

"Men are mostly good," said Abe. "But it's very easy to misunderstand them. In my view it's quite likely that John McNamar is better than you think him. I want you to be fair to John. If you conclude that you can not be happy with him giving me a chance, I would do my best to bring back the joy of the old days. Sometimes I think that I am going to do something worth while. Sometimes I think that I can see my way far ahead and it looks very pleasant, and you, Ann, are always walking beside me in it."

They proceeded in silence for a moment. A great flock of wild pigeons darkened the sky above them and filled it with the whirr of their wings. The young man and woman stopped to look up at them.

"They are going south," said Abe. "It's a sign of bad weather." They stood talking for a little time. "I'm glad they halted us for a moment, have not far to go," Abe remarked. "Before we take another step I wish you could give me some good advice to live on—just a little straw of hope."

"You are a wonderful man, Abe," said Ann, touched by his appeal. "My father says that you are going to be a great man."

"I can not hold out any such hope to you," Abe answered. "I'm rather ignorant and badly in debt but I reckon that I can make a good living and give you a comfortable home. Don't you think, taking me just as I am, you could care for me a little?"

"Yes, sometimes I think that I could love you, Abe," she answered. "I do not love you yet but I may—sometime. I really want to love you." "That is all I can ask now," said Abe, as they went on. "Do you hear from Din Kelson?"

"I have not heard from her since June." "I wish you would write to her and tell her that I am thinking of going down to St. Louis and that I would like to go and see her."

"I'll write to her tomorrow," said Ann. They had a pleasant visit and while Ann was playing with the baby she seemed to have forgotten her troubles. They stayed to supper, after which the whole family walked to the tavern with them. Joe and Betsey drawing the baby in their "lumber wagon," which Samson had made for them. When Ann began to show weariness, Abe gently lifted her in his arms and carried her.

That evening Mrs. Peter Lukins called upon Abe at Sam Hill's store where he sat alone, before the fire, reading with a candle burning on the end of a dry goods box at his elbow.

There was an anxious look in her one eye as she accepted his invitation to sit down in the firelight. "I wanted to see you private, 'bout Lukins," she began. "There's them that calls him Bony Lukins but I reckon he ain't no better than the average run of men—not a bit—'n' if he was I don't reckon his bones orio be throwed at him every time he's spoke to that away."

Peter Lukins was a slim, sober faced, quiet little man with a long nose who worked in the carding mill. He never spoke, save when spoken to, and then with a solemn look as if the matter in hand, however slight, were likely to affect his eternal welfare. In his cups he was speechless and, in a way, dumb with morriment. He answered no questions, he expressed no opinions, he told no stories. He only smiled and broke into roars of laughter, even if there was no one to share his joy, as if convinced, at last, of the hopeless absurdity of life.

One told of following him from Springfield to New Salem and of hearing him laugh all the way. Many had noted another peculiarity in the man. He seemed always to have a week's growth of beard on his face.

"What can I do about it?" Abe asked. "I've been hopin' 'n' wishin' some kind of a decent handle could be put on to his name," said Mrs. Lukins, with her eye upon a knot hole in the counter. "Something with a good sound to it. You said that anything you could do for the New Salem folks you was goin' to do 'n' I thought maybe you could fix it."

Abe smiled and asked: "Do you want a title?" "If it ain't plum awdacious I wisht he could be made a colonel," said Mrs. Lukins. "That's a title for fighting men," said Abe.

"An' that man has fit for his life ever since he was born," said Mrs. Lukins. "He's fit the measles 'n' the smallpox 'n' the fever 'n' ager 'n' conquered 'em."

"I reckon he deserves the title," Abe remarked. "I ain't sayin' but what there is purtier men," she said reflectively, as she stuck her finger into the knot hole and felt its edges. "I ain't sayin' but what there is smarter men but I do say that the name o' Bony ain't hardly fit to be heard in company."

"A little whitewash wouldn't hurt him 'n' I'd gladly give him my title of captain if I could un-bitch it some way."

QUESTION YOURSELF ABOUT THE LESSON; IT WILL BE EASIER
(A "Study" Article)

Once I read of a man who, when he got a new book, would look at its title, fix the subject in his mind, lay the book aside and go into his garden where he would pace up and down thinking of everything he'd ever read, seen or heard about the subject. Then he'd ask himself what else he'd want to know, and, returning to the book, read it with the purpose of answering the questions.

Pretty good way to study history and geography and other things, isn't it?

Suppose you and I are studying the war of 1812. Let's stop a few minutes and think of what we already know about it. These things we'll jot down on a piece of paper. Then let's ask ourselves questions about the war, the answers to which we don't know. What was the cause of it? How long did it last? And such. Jot these down also.

Then, like the man, we pick up our book and begin reading to answer those questions.

It is well, after having studied a lesson for some time, to lay aside the book and ask yourself the question: "What are the most important things I have learned?" Lots of times one will remember a great number of unimportant details and forget the big facts. Proceed to cast out the little detail matter.

Do you believe everything you read? If you do, you shouldn't. Everything that appears in books, magazines and newspapers is not always "straight goods," and it's wise to investigate—especially the statements about which you are doubtful.

If you are reading up on botany better read two books instead of only one. See how the important statements compare. It's interesting.

Put into practice what you read. Suppose you have just finished a book that says every feather stays in the air five minutes before it falls to the earth. Get a couple of feathers and see if that's the truth. See if the belief is true.

BALTIMORE BOYS GET OPPORTUNITY TO BE REAL NEWSPAPERMEN

Fifty-five enthusiastic boys, ranging in age from 11 to 17, were at the recent first meeting and became charter members of the new Baltimore (Md.) Junior Press Club, fostered by the "Baltimore American."

The Baltimore Club is like the Junior Press Club of Rockford, Ill., in some respects. Its members, divided into small groups each one of which is called an "editorial staff," have full charge of the editing of the young people's daily section of the "American." This is similar to the plan of the Rockford organization.

Every member is charged to turn in the news of his school, and the appointed "city editor" of each editorial staff sees to it that the men of his group are kept busy with special assignments. They say it is "great stuff."

out from week to week are discussions on the price-making forces, the interdependence of the farmer and consumer, the influence of foreign markets, the causes which decrease the buying power of the consumer, the inefficiency of the present system of distribution, trade privileges, production privileges, and finally, the remedy.

The farmer's dependence on the market is emphasized by the division.
He consumes very little of what he produces and his whole welfare is dependent on the market. It is pointed out. A farmer's market is like a body of water which must be filled by a flow from rivers, the statement says.
Unless this flow is steady and continual the body of water will dry up or be overflowed. In the same way the farmer's market will dry up or be glutted if the flow of demand from the consumer to the producer is not sufficient to absorb all of his marketable products.

As its object the division states it intends to render the transfer of commodities from producer to consumer as cheap and as efficient as possible and to bring about conditions which will promote a steady and continual flow of demand from the consumer to the farmer's market.

The investigations of the division have disclosed that there is a relatively small number of forces at work which now handicap the producer and consumer, it is stated, but that their control will give the public a powerful lever with which to bring about the existence of a favorable market not subject to violent fluctuations.

The topics which will be discussed by the bureau are the following: (1)
Relation of distribution to production.
(2) The price-making forces. (3)
The market. (4) Interdependence of the farmer and the consumer. (5)
The influence of foreign markets. (6)
The importance of home markets. (7)
The development of home markets.
(8) The dependence of home markets upon the buying power of the consumer. (9) The dependence of the purchasing power of the consumer upon opportunities to work, to be continually employed and to receive full compensation for one's services. (10)
The causes which decrease the buying power of the consumer. (11) The inefficiency of the present system of distribution. (12) Trade privileges.
(13) Production privileges. (14)
The remedy.

VAUDEVILLE AT MAJESTIC
Shorty McCoy, London's famous yodeler, a clever chap who presents a splendid routine of comedy singing and yodeling in an entertaining and original manner, is known as London's famous yodeler and has appeared in most of the principal cities on the globe. Ansley and Paroli are two entertaining fellows who present a good line of comedy talk and songs.
Ethel Clayton in "The City Sparrow" is the feature photoplay for this program.

"TIGER TRUE"—CASINO
The character of a man of fashion who lingers for adventure and who becomes a "bonheur" in a cheap derelict cafe in order to keep his eye on a girl of the slums in whom he becomes interested, is an unusual one, but is played with much charm and skill by Frank Mayo in "Tiger True" at the Casino. The story is by Max Brand and is replete with vigorous scenes and is quite quickening situations. The serial, "The Lost City" and Fox News also are on the program.

ETHEL CLAYTON HERE
A cast of clever artists, playing the various supporting roles, is one of the reasons for the brilliant reports of "A City Sparrow," the new Ethel Clayton starring vehicle for Paramount which will be shown at the Majestic today.

Ethel Clayton, the star, stands in the front rank of film stars and has a most enthusiastic following.

Wright, conductor, has prepared special music for the feature.

actions as high class vaudeville acts. Today Nalo and Rizzo, offering a musical novelty, will be presented. The feature film will be Louise Glaum's "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," a vivid picturization of Louis Joseph Vance's sequel to "The Lone Wolf" and "False Faces." It is one of the most sensational melodramas shown in this city in a long time. Helen Gibson in "The Overland Express," a thriller of the plains and railroad days, also will be shown. The Ford Weekly rounds out the bill.

AT THE RIVOLI
Mother love has been worn threadbare as a theme on stage and screen, but a mother's love for her own creature comforts, gained at the sacrifice of her only daughter's happiness, is something different.
Skillfully treated so as to extract every ounce of humor from the situations. "Mamma's Affair," a First National Attraction, appeared on the screen of the Rivoli Theater yesterday and met with approval from the enthusiastic patrons, who applauded the appearance of Constance Talmadge as the star.

Another splendid feature with this program is the Beyerstedt feature "The Evolution of Dixie," a musical fantasia depicting the gradual evolution of Dixie.

VERY HAPPY GROUP OF MERRY CHILDREN ENJOY EASTER PARTY

THE LITTLE FOLKS of the primary, kindergarten and canteen roll departments, accompanied by their mothers, were happily entertained at an Easter party on Saturday afternoon at the parlors of the First Congregational church. Despite the rain, a large number of children and their mothers were in attendance, enjoying the party very much. The program consisted of songs, recitations, and a play. The children had a very merry time with games, following which an informal program of songs and recitations, appropriate to Easter, was given. INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail grows naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail grows naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic, manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

WHEN IS A BARGAIN NOT A BARGAIN?

50-50
"Hoss Tradin"
Too Foolish
At Atlantic City
They're Your Friends

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Stamp collecting and stamp swapping express a healthy boyhood instinct—trading. The "hoss tradin" of the grown-up enriches many a page of American literature.

It's instinctive to trade—to find a bargain. You'll find a lot of folks who went or were sent to Atlantic City for the benefit of the ocean breezes, sitting in stuffy auction rooms along the Boardwalk hour after hour.

Why? For the hope of getting something worth more than it costs. Such bargains generally end in heartburn.

A bargain at the expense of the other fellow is nothing to brag about. It is noteworthy only because it is so rare. It is not the kind of trading that pays. A number of people think that the times we have been driving too hard a bargain against life itself.

In general there are two types of business that were most affected by the recent slowdown. And these two types were largely responsible for most of the "distress," etc., you have heard. First, the business that lives by its wits, and tends to make its profit at the expense of its help to the public—relying on its lack of identity for safety; and second, the business that makes as good goods as those you know through advertising, but which find itself in distress in times when you only buy goods you are absolutely sure of—advertisized goods.

The manufacturer and merchant whose goods are known to you through advertising places most of his confidence in your good will.

He could perhaps get the same volume of business some other way, but he has more faith in you than he has in anything else. If he had not spent years in patiently building your confidence he could have raised his prices without a qualm, but he never did until he was obliged to in order to stay in business, and he never raised prices beyond the keeping-on-point, because that would have been too foolish for words. It would have cost him more in your good will—which is a product of years—than it would have made him in profits, which are here today and gone tomorrow.

It isn't only that you should be sure goods are rightly manufactured. How does the maker feel about earning and keeping your good will?

As you read the advertisements in the great newspapers and magazines you can tell where the values are placed: Price and quality—price and quality, service, satisfaction, "our name on the goods means your money back if you are dissatisfied."

There is no reason why you should defer buying what you need. There is every reason why you may expect great value today from the known thing. These are days when friendship counts and when it pays to trust our friends. The men and women making and selling the products you know so well are your friends. They count on your buying what they make, so that they can buy what they make—so that life may be fuller—so that a clean record of square dealing may continue to be regarded as the best policy as well as the best code.

"Hoss tradin" is all right in books—that's the only place for ever works. Know the goods you buy—know the people of whom you buy, and you are on a sound basis with money back if not satisfied. That's fair. Who wants an unfair advantage?

Bargains in their true sense are always the interchange of goods and services on a 50-50 basis, with no loss sought by the buyer at the expense of the seller, or vice versa.

That is what honest business calls normal conditions. Each has to do his part now to make them come true for the good of all.

There are many citizens who know about the "errors" in Mr. Schultz' statement and it will be very easy for you to determine for yourself as to the question of veracity between he and myself. Do not think, Colonel, that six years of honest endeavor and the mayor's office, and what can be expected from the minds of the people, by a highly polished political affidavit, cunningly and learnedly prepared, and sworn to by a man whom many others have heard speak exactly contrary to the affidavit.

I do not remember the exact words, but a short time ago you had printed in the Tribune, a statement to the effect that you would not carry on a mud-slinging campaign and that if the people honored you with the office of mayor, it must come without the usual political trickery. Now I welcomed that statement for I had hoped after hearing it we could carry on a frank and intelligent discussion of the real issues in the campaign. I certainly invite an endorsement of my official record and an anxious to know if the people of La Crosse want to go forward in my fight against the organized effort in the state to divide the taxing powers of the city councils, and thereby place those having authority to levy taxes, in a position hopelessly removed from the influence of the ballot. There are many other real questions, in my "Declaration of Purpose," as well as other statements I have made. Please let us discuss these and abandon the dwarfing bitterness that provokes the shout of "Liar."

Sincerely yours,

Stating that he is without a home, a stranger giving his name as William Williams was picked up on the north side by officers of the local police force Saturday evening and found to be in possession of a purse containing money alleged to have been stolen from one F. Mullin, farmer, near Genoa, Wis.

Mullin reported losing the purse, which at the time contained $20. The purse found in the possession of Williams Saturday evening was identified as that of the Genoa man, according to the statement of the police Monday. Eighteen of the twenty dollars were recovered.

Williams will be held at central station pending action of Vernon county officials.

want to make a confession regarding this affidavit.

Now the people care very little about political affidavits. They are worth about as much as a Tammany Ward Healer's evening smile. In the old days of municipal party politics some of the bosses used to look all around for fellows who were never very careful as to what they swore to.

Mr. Schultz had written this affidavit himself. It would have been worded quite differently I believe. But, as I said before, the people must be the judges as to the main question in dispute. That question is: Did Mr. Schultz seek my assistance or did I ask for his?

Mr. Schultz received his appointment to the employment office by an "irregularity." The state industrial commission sent a special representative here to tutor Mr. Schultz for the job for two weeks service examination; they held a civil service examination for applicants for the position. Naturally he made the best showing for the position. Before this happened I had recommended three names to the industrial commission for appointment. Mr. Schultz was one of them.

A vigorous protest was made to Mr. Schultz' appointment, and a special committee was appointed to take the matter up with the industrial commission, but it was found that nothing could be done.

Numerous complaints have been made to me about Mr. Schultz showing favoritism to non-union men, about him spending most of his time in matters connected with his several positions in the war department, and generally neglecting his regular duties as superintendent of the employment office.

All of these and other complaints, in my judgment have rendered him absolutely valueless as a vote-getter or as being a desirable worker to offer a "plum" to in pay for the delivery of the soldier vote. But in my opinion he broke the last string on his political fiddle when he filled the old Palmer livery barn with real war department cannon and battery horses.

He claims most of the credit for getting the outfit here, although some of your friends are claiming some of the credit for yourself. If I had ever asked him for his political support after those big guns were rolled into position on State street, I should really feel that I was nearly incompetent to manage my own campaign.

There are many citizens who know about the "errors" in Mr. Schultz' statement and it will be very easy for you to determine for yourself as to the question of veracity between he and myself. Do not think, Colonel, that six years of honest endeavor and the mayor's office, and what can be expected from the minds of the people, by a highly polished political affidavit, cunningly and learnedly prepared, and sworn to by a man whom many others have heard speak exactly contrary to the affidavit.

LIMIT PERIOD FOR BILL INTRODUCTION ASKS COMMITTEE

April 15 Set as Last Day on Which Bills Can be Introduced

MADISON, Wis.—Bill introduction time in the assembly should end April 15, the committee on rules determined at its recent meeting. After that time only committee measures can be brought into the house even though the titles were filed before the closing of the six weeks period allowed, if the lower house accepts the resolution to be introduced by Assemblyman Fowler.

There are 91 bills remaining in revision that must be completed and introduced within the next two weeks. Assemblyman J. B. French, chairman of the committee, said. If the authors of the proposals are interested in having them considered at this session, they will have to take them to the assembly, he was developed.

Nearly 900 bills have been introduced in the legislature in the present session by individual legislators. The pending measures are considered. This number is 300 fewer than that of two years ago when over 1,000 bills were entered.

Among the outstanding proposals to which the time limit will apply is a bill by Assemblyman Peterson restricting the earnings of public service corporations to 6 per cent, any remaining earnings to go into a fund for retiring the bonded indebtedness.

Most of the delinquent bills are of minor consequence, and in many instances will be allowed to die. Committee work will be hastened by application of the new rule.

EDWARD SCHULTZ IS INJURED IN ACCIDENT ON LA CRESCENT ROAD

Team Frightened by Bicycle Leaps Over Embankment on La Crescent Road

Edward Schultz, age 65, La Crescent, was taken to the St. Francis hospital for treatment of several cuts about the head received when his team became frightened by a bicycle on the La Crescent road Sunday night, jumping over the embankment with the result of flipping over the vehicle which at the time was occupied by an elderly woman, two children and another man.

With the exception of Mr. Schultz, members of the party escaped without suffering serious injuries.

The people were driving along the La Crescent road late Sunday evening, according to the report, and when a young man approaching from the rear on a bicycle passed the team, it became frightened, and leaping over the embankment, pulled the vehicle with them. Mr. Schultz received several cuts about his head, while other members of the party miraculously escaped with bruises as a result of the tip-over.

MARAUDER ENTERS LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING SATURDAY

Breaks Glass in Door of Superintendent's Office But Escapes Without Taking Anything

Entering the La Crosse high school building presumably at a late hour Saturday night or early Sunday morning, a marauder broke the glass plate in the door entering into the office of the superintendent, but as far as is known escaped without root of any kind. The information was received from the local police department Monday morning.

In the report to the police department, the night watchman of the building was said to have noticed at about 4:30 Sunday morning that the building had been entered. An attempt to immediately notify the police of the matter failed when it was found that the telephone lines were out of order, according to the statement of the night watchman to the police.

Just where entrance to the building was gained is not known. It was evident that an attempt to break the lock of the door to the superintendent's office had been made and when this attempt failed, the glass was broken.

After taking an inventory at the office it was reported that nothing had been stolen. No clue to the identity of the person connected with the affair was found.

DAMAGE IS DONE BY HARD GALE IN CITY AND VICINITY

Trees Blown Down and a Few Small Buildings Unroofed by Southwest Breeze

A gale which blew up out of the southwest Saturday night gave La Crosse and vicinity a fairly good imitation of a tornado. Damage in the city was confined to the unroofing of a few outbuildings in the south end of the city and the scattering of tree limbs over streets in different parts of the city. A few old trees were blown down.

According to the weather bureau reports the wind attained a velocity of 35 miles an hour between 3 and 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Later in the morning the breeze veered to the northwest, where it remained throughout Sunday, bringing a cold wave Sunday night.

The forecast is for warmer Tuesday and an abatement of the wind which gave La Crosse a taste of real winter after balmy spring weather of several weeks.

lower prices. This is the main foundation of my platform.

"You have read Mayor Bentley's platform. It does not mention either of these remedies for the evils that surround us, nor does it offer any remedy whatever. I leave you to choose between us on these issues."

Professional Vice Foe

"Another issue that is injecting itself into the campaign is that of crime in the community. There are two regular gambling houses in La Crosse. Everybody about town knows it. Moonshiners are paying their trade from ambush here. It is notorious. You all know how deadly this poison is. You can imagine the effect of it upon a man who was accustomed to drink a glass or two of mild beer.

"I want to say to you frankly that if elected mayor I would stop every professional gambler who lives upon the 'take-off' of games which he entices people to play. I would smash the stills wherever I could find them. In other words, I would clean up the professional criminals who infest the city."

"These criminals are afraid of me, and they are spreading broadcast stories to the effect that if elected I would impose 'blue laws' upon the community. Those who know me know that this is an absurdity. I am a firm believer in individual self-determination. I would, no more submit to 'blue laws' in La Crosse than I would put a yoke around my own neck or fasten a ball and chain to my neighbor's foot."

Won't "Lay Off"

"I have been warned to 'lay off' this subject, that it will cost me votes among the laboring people even to mention it. I certainly will not 'lay off' it. I deny that the working people are in sympathy with gambling and moonshining. I resent the persistent efforts of some people to make it appear that the labor movement is in partnership with unclean things. The basis of the labor movement is to provide clean homes, good surroundings, education and independence for all who labor. And so I encourage for all who labor, and women who have to work for a living to help me rid the town of these grafters who prey upon the health and purses of the unwary and the young."

Very sincerely,
"FRANK H. FOWLER."

THE POLITICAL FORUM

THE MAYOR AND MADISON
March 26, 1921

Editor of the Tribune.
Dear Sir: In the issue of the Tribune of a late date was an article signed by Mr. Charles Swertfeger, who seemed to lay great stress on the fact that Colonel Fowler should not be elected for mayor because he was a member of the legislature and that one job was enough. Mr. Swertfeger is not acquainted with the probably is not acquainted with the fact that not very long ago the mayor had himself appointed as a legislative committee to go to Madison to look after the interests of the city before the legislature. Now it is greatly to the advantage of the city to have its mayor a member of the legislature, because it puts him in a position of influence with the other members of the legislature, when a question comes up in which the city of La Crosse might be interested. It is a well known fact that there is not one-half hour a day legitimate work for the mayor in the city of La Crosse, outside the regular monthly meeting of the common council. The charter provides for the absence of the mayor by having the council elect a president of that body as one of the regular city officers who performs all the duties of mayor in the absence of the mayor. The first and ablest fire and police commission that we ever had was appointed by the then president of the council, Mr. J. H. Murray. Two years ago the session is well advanced and the session is well advanced and the will be over shortly, and then the Hon. Frank H. Fowler will be with us and the affairs of the city will not be neglected. I can assure Mr. Swertfeger that electing Mr. Fowler mayor will not add any expense to the city but probably will save us money in the way of sundry light bills, etc. You see, Mr. Fowler has no newspaper to run and it will not be so expensive to run the mayor's office and then the new mayor, not having to manage and edit a newspaper, will have plenty time to look after the affairs of the city. Yours truly,
PAUL W. MAHONEY.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS, GEORGE BACKUS CUTS SHINES TO 10 CENTS

Shoes shined for 10 cents—pre-war prices—was the announcement of George Backus, who operates a shoe shining stand in Main street near Third, on Saturday.

"The war is over, prices for many things have come down so I decided a good shine wasn't worth more than 10 cents," said Mr. Backus today, explaining why he had pared a nickel off the price of a shine. The price had been 15 cents in all Main street shops and it had begun to look as though the price was as permanent as the paving on Main street.

At the two other shoe shining shops, conducted near Fourth and Main streets, it was said that the 15-cent price would prevail.

FIRST WORKOUT OF LA CROSSE BASEBALL CLUB BIG SUCCESS; OVER TWENTY-FIVE MEN OUT

Despite the frigid atmosphere which abounded more especially in the early part of the fair grounds Sunday afternoon as the cool northwest wind swept across Normal field, baseball players numbering over twenty-five bled themselves out for the initial practice and tryout of the "La Crosse" baseball club.

With fielders and pitchers working the ball over the entire lot and "warming up" on the sidelines, the field presented a wholesome scene of encouragement that the outdoor sport will be revived and command a prominent position in sporting circles and in dictating the manner in which baseball enthusiasts will spend their afternoons on the days that "La Crosse" plays at home.

In spite of the cold weather the men stuck until they were blue in the face and it is expected that with the return of warmer weather, additional material will turn out and take a hand in the new baseball organization.

All that's necessary now is to "talk it up". So let's go.

The tournament leaders are:

Two-man—A. H. Arnold and others, Chicago.

Three-man—Kallush and Schiemann, Rochester.

15 SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES TO ENTER PENN RELAY RACES

Number Breaks Record for Schools Brought Together in an Intercollegiate Meet

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—One hundred and fifty colleges and two hundred and eighty schools have sent teams that they will be represented in the annual relay races of the University of Pennsylvania here on April 20. These entry lists will be next Friday. Never before has such a number of institutions been brought together for an intercollegiate meet.

The keenest interest will center about the events in which French athletes will compete. On the first day of the meet they will run in the quarter-mile medley relay race. The leading colleges in the United States are represented in both events.

EIGHT CUE EXPERTS COMPETE IN NATIONAL BILLIARD TOURNEY

DETROIT, Mich.—The National three-cushion billiard championship tournament opened here on Monday with eight cue experts competing. William Hines of Chicago, the present title-holder, was missing, however, owing to pressure of business affairs. The competition is to continue through the week with five matches each day leading to the final Saturday night. In the first game A. H. Hahn was pitted against W. L. Brewer and H. E. Kohn opposed Dr. H. W. Sutcliffe. Other matches were: George H. Laubach vs. Louis Abaugh; L. A. Servatius vs. Walker Calderwood.

HOREMANS WINS 18-2 CUE MATCH FROM COCHRAN

NEW YORK—Edouard Horemans, the Belgian champion, last night defeated Walker Cochran, of San Francisco, in their 18.2 cue match at 152. Against Horemans' grand total of 4,800 Cochran finished with 4,616. The grand averages were 50, 50, 50.

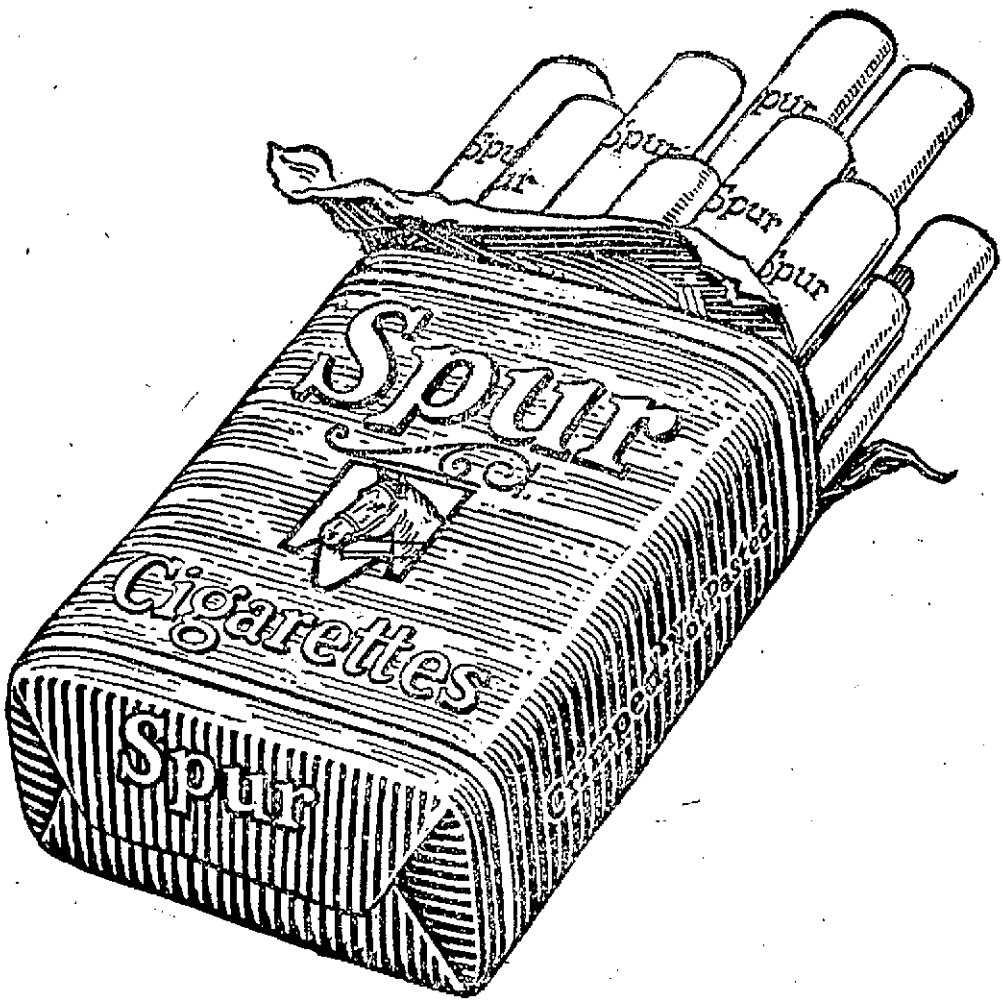

for Horemans and 48, 50, 55 for Cochran. The Belgian won the final block by 400 to 377, averaging 23.4 to his opponent's 23.1. Horemans' best effort was 156. Cochran made a brave try in his final inning to go out.

Cochran out-hove his opponent's lead in the afternoon by outscoring him, 508 to 400, in 10 innings.

Matching up Sable Skins

In the critical eyes of the furrier there is a great deal of difference in skins of animals of the same species. For instance, it takes hundreds of sable skins to make a long wrap, and because the fur on the under side of the animal is always thinner than on top, the sides of the pelts must be tucked and sewn together in many small seams to give the fur a uniform thickness. A fur cloak costing thousands of dollars is entirely the work of experts.

GOVERNMENT CIRCLES AT MADISON SHOCKED AT M'CARTHY DEATH

Only Received Word of Illness on Friday; Death Follows Operation

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY AT MADISON

Prominent Figure in State for Over Twenty Years

MADISON, Wis.—Funeral services for Dr. Charles McCarthy, former head of the Wisconsin legislative reference library, advisor to presidents and governors, will probably be held in Madison on Wednesday. News of the death came as a distinct shock to members of the Wisconsin legislature and friends of Dr. McCarthy, who had only learned of his illness on Friday. Dr. McCarthy had gone to Prescott, Arizona, for his health and expected to return to Madison within ten days.

On Saturday, word was received in Madison late Saturday evening of the death. Mrs. McCarthy is on her way back to Madison with the body. Few men in Wisconsin were better known in political and educational circles. Many of the progressive laws of the state were framed by Dr. McCarthy. For twenty years Dr. McCarthy has been a prominent figure in Wisconsin. In 1901 he founded the legislative reference library in Madison for the drafting of laws for the legislature. The idea has spread to nearly every state in the union. Dr. McCarthy has always been deeply interested in reform movements and in 1912 spent twelve evenings in the writing of a book, "The Wisconsin Idea," which gave a resume of the Wisconsin progressive movement.

In 1918 Dr. McCarthy was a democratic candidate for United States senator against Joseph R. Davies, but was defeated in the primaries. He was later offered an appointment as $12,500 a year to do diplomatic service in China, but declined. During the war Dr. McCarthy first served as a member of the United States commission on industrial relations and later with the Federal Food Administration. In the latter capacity he was sent to Europe on a mission. Dr. McCarthy was born at Brocton, Mass., 1873 and was educated at Brown university, where he was noted as a fast football player. He came to Wisconsin in 1900 as a scholar in history. Dr. McCarthy has suffered with throat trouble for years and his death is probably the result of this infirmity.

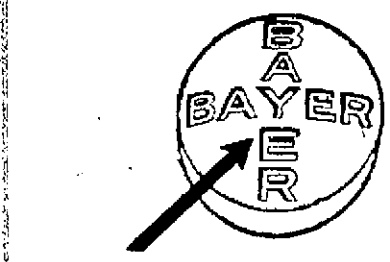

MEN AND WOMEN OF FRIENDS SOCIETY ARE IN JOINT SESSION

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Men and women sat together in joint conference at the opening session Monday of the yearly meeting of Friends (orthodox). It was an innovation so far as local Quaker meetings are concerned. Heretofore men and women met separately and sent communications to each other by messenger but it was decided to hold one joint session for business requiring joint consideration.

RUSSIAN ANTI-BOLSHEVIK REVOLT LAID TO LACK OF DISCIPLINE IN THE NAVY

STOCKHOLM.—By The Associated Press.—The details of the beginning of the revolt in Kronstadt against the bolshevik administration and the circumstances forming a background against which this episode can be seen and judged have been learned by the correspondent from well informed sources by way of Riga, Latvia, and Helsinki, Finland. Ever since the bolshevik revolution, Kronstadt had a tendency to develop into a dependent soviet republic. Under the larger Russian administration, discipline in the navy was stricter than in the army, but since the revolution, lack of discipline among the sailors has been hard to check. In Kronstadt the sailors lived in officers' private villas and held to officers' clubs, avoiding all drills and enjoying a paradise as long as they were supplied with food and clothes from Petrograd. The government in Moscow did not interfere, arguing it was better to have the sailors for it than against it.

Built Up Army First
General Denikin, Admiral Kolchak, General Yudenitch and General Wrangel, the anti-bolshevik leaders, had to be fought on land and it was necessary to establish a bolshevik army, but not a navy. Yet Trotsky never forgot he had once been in the Russian navy, and he only awaited the proper opportunity to make the Russian navy as strong and supply a weapon in his hands as he had made the army.

The soviet government had a program clear and precise, that the Baltic sea must become and remain a Russian lake, and declared the Aland island question proved this. It has been repeatedly contended from the Russian side that any international agreement regarding the Alands would be invalid unless signed by Russia.

Navy Lacked Discipline
During the Yudenitch offensive against Petrograd in 1919 the Kronstadt navy was useless owing to the absence of discipline. Trotsky started his reorganization directly the Yudenitch adventure was ended and appointed M. Baskinikov its chief, assisted by a former czarist admiral to form an efficient battle squadron. He declared the red flag should fly from

EDUCATIONAL BILLS UP FOR HEARING AT MADISON THIS WEEK

MADISON, Wis.—Informal conferences between the senate and assembly committees on education will be held this week to consider the Skogmo bill providing for reorganization of the school administration system in Wisconsin. Attempt will be made to throw out any differences in order that there might be general agreement when the measure is reported out to the floor of the legislature for action. Senator Skogmo is interested in having the measure considered carefully before it is brought to committee for a formal report. Both the reorganization bill and the teachers' retirement fund bill will probably be heard by the senate education and public welfare committee during the coming week and the week after.

These two big educational measures, which are both attracting wide attention. The retirement fund proposal, which would completely reorganize the present insurance method, placing it on a sound financial basis, is the cause of more petitions from teachers and citizens generally than any other measure before the legislature.

The bill to abolish the state board of education is still pending in the assembly education committee where it was heard several weeks ago. No report on it will be made pending consideration of the Skogmo bill which provides for both the abolition of the present board of education and the board of vocational education.

"DARDANELLA"
It is quite futile to wonder over the extraordinary evolution of musical comedy. Theatersgoers once had a habit of completely yielding up in amazement when a particularly brilliant production came along and exclaiming, "What a Dardanella!"

But next season along came a new production surpassing all previous efforts with new stunts in the way of stunting and new ideas carried out on stage, which would completely reorganize the present insurance method, placing it on a sound financial basis, is the cause of more petitions from teachers and citizens generally than any other measure before the legislature.

Take it from me!

TOMAH ASKS STATE FOR ADJUSTMENT OF LIGHT, POWER RATES

Statement of Income and Operating Expenses Sought by Railroad Commission

MILWAUKEE AGREES TO BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

500 Children of Tomah and Vicinity in Easter Egg Hunt

TOMAH, Wis.—The adjustment of rates of the Tomah Light and Power Company is still unsettled and this city is anxiously awaiting the decision of the Wisconsin railroad commission. The commission Friday ordered a detailed statement of income and operating expenses from the company, and following a filing of the statement and the commission will make its decision. Claims for a reduction of rates were made for this city by City Attorney T. P. Donovan who was assisted by Mr. Hunt, city engineer of St. Paul. Claims for rate reductions are based on two points, first the present reduction in the cost of coal, second that the equipment of the company's new plant is so much greater than is required for the load carried that it is run at an excessive cost.

More Trains To Stop

The petition of Tomah for better train service was heard by the State Railroad commission, General Supt. Thiel and other officials of the M. & W. road being present, and the road has agreed to allow two more trains to stop at Tomah. If after a further consideration of the matter, the commission deems it necessary, the railroad will be called upon to make further concessions.

One of the most successful community events ever put on in this city was the Easter egg hunt, staged on Saturday by the Woman's Civic Improvement Club, and enjoyed by five hundred children of Tomah and vicinity. Four thousand Easter eggs were hidden in the grove in this city owned by the Civic club. The hunt started at the call of a bugle promptly at three o'clock. Prizes were awarded children finding the greatest number of Easter eggs. The hunt closed with a program by the children in the public schools. Each child in attendance took home a souvenir of the event. Mrs. A. A. Pix, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Civic club, planned and put on the hunt, which was an original idea of her own. A nominal fee was charged, and the children sold six hundred tickets to adults and children. The proceeds of the hunt are used to assist in paying for a piano installed in the Miller school by the Civic club.

Pioneer Buried Saturday

Funeral services were held Saturday for Frederick Ferdinand Krueger, aged 87 years, who was born in Pomerania, Germany, and came to America Oct. 14, 1850. Krueger settled with his young wife in Tomah and has resided in this city. He is survived by his widow, Emilie Krueger and three children: Mrs. George Wilson and Gustave O. Krueger of Tomah and Mrs. Frank Mueller of Oconomowoc.

William McGinnis, who was born in Tomah June 27, 1849 died March 24, after a brief attack of pneumonia. He is survived by six children, Mrs. Jackson Dewey of Tomah, Mrs. Fred Hotchkiss of Highland Park, Mich., Floyd Dewey of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Miss Esther McGinnis of Fargo N. Dakota, Messrs Fred and Arthur McGinnis of Dillworth, Minn.

Don'ts by the Japanese Police
In view of the increase of petty thieving, the police of Tokyo have issued a set of ten "Don'ts" to be followed by residents, one of which is "When in tramcars or crowds, see that your purse is safely ensconced in one of your inner pockets." Others are warnings against doing business with strange peddlers and sending women or children to the bank with or for money. Natives are also warned against making undue display of their money when making purchases.

In forty-six cases of suicide analyzed by a writer in the Journal of Mental and Nervous Diseases, sixteen were cases of dementia praecox, nine of manic depressive insanity, five of psychopathic personality, three of psychoneurosis and the others scattered. In fourteen cases the attempt was due to depression; in seven to poison.
